

'Tighten that belt,' order EMC officials

Eastern Michigan College is being hard hit by the state's cash deficit.

According to college officials, the lack of funds is not only hurting activities like out-of-state trips by athletic teams or journeys to conferences by members of the faculty, but also simple things, they say, like the replacement of typewriter ribbons or the repairing of plumbing facilities which are feeling the tightening belt of Michigan's financial crisis.

The problem of delayed maintenance, postponed purchases and similar "economies," college officials say, will result in a snowballing effect that in itself will only create bigger problems.

This is aside from the morale factor which has resulted in considerable unrest among faculty members, not only at EMC, but at all state colleges and universities, they point out.

"We haven't replaced staff members who have resigned to take other positions or left because of ill health or similar reasons," one college official reports. "This has, obviously, an immediate effect on class sizes and the work load, in turn, of other faculty members."

Among the most serious consequences of the fund shortage:

The EMC library has piled up orders for $6,000 worth of books—on the surface not much, but serious when a student or teacher needs one of the books and it isn't there.

Officials have ordered a cut on work on college grounds and streets. Sharp curtailments have hit the trimming of shrubbery, weeding of flower beds and the normal spring cleanup.

Out-of-state travel has been virtually cut, although some faculty members are paying for trips to scholarly conferences out of their own pockets.

Economy is the watchword on the EMC campus, but it's coupled with the fervent hope that the fiscal crisis in Michigan will be settled — and soon — before serious permanent damage is done the educational program not only locally, but throughout the state, according to college officials.

New look ok'd for commencement

There will be no guest speaker to deliver a commencement address at 1959 graduation exercises for Eastern Michigan seniors, and the names of all graduates will be called as they walk across the stage.

The President's Policy Council announced the new setup for this year's commencement program, after considering recommendations of Student Council.

The policy council said that instead of having an outside speaker, the graduating senior with the highest academic record would speak briefly and the president of the Faculty Council would be invited to speak briefly.

The Policy Council also said that "insurmountable obstacles" would prevent holding the commencement exercises in the outdoor stadium if weather permitted, because of lack of equipment and funds to set up graduation both indoors and out. It will again this year be held in Bowen Field House.

Newman Club hosts convention

EMC will be host to the Michigan Province convention of the National Federation of Newman Clubs the weekend of May 1, 2, and 3 at St. John's Catholic Church in Ypsilanti.

The Most Reverend Thomas L. Noa, Bishop of Marquette, will celebrate the Pontifical Mass and speak at the Communion Sunday breakfast. Father George Garrelts, will give the keynote address, and the banquet speech will be made by Senator Philip A. Hart.

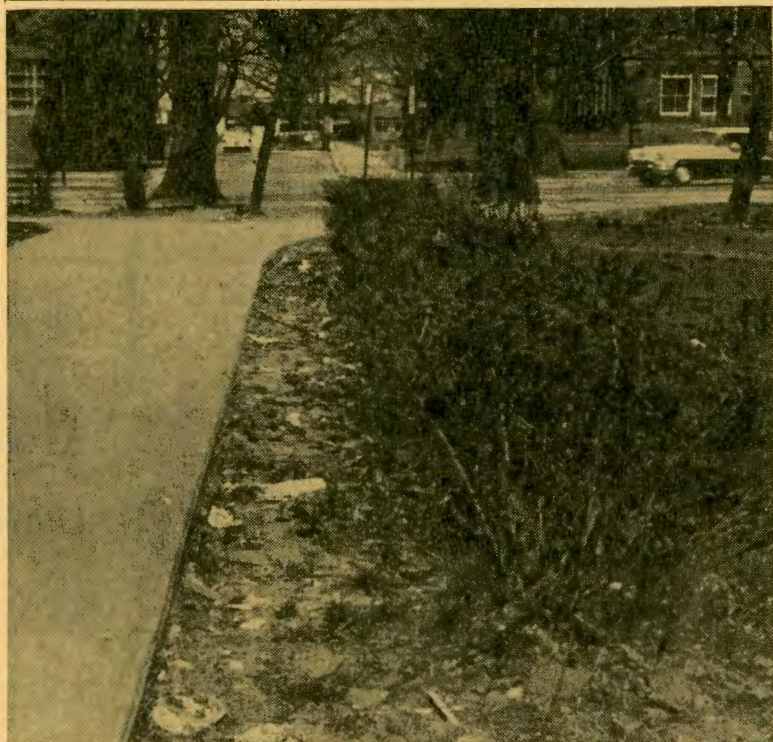

Students may register for the convention at St. John's auditorium Friday, May 1.

Students, faculty face payless day

A total of 668 college employees including teachers, regular help and part-time student help may not receive their paychecks on May 7.

In commenting about the crucial situation, President Eugene B. Elliott said, "we still have eight days in which we can hope that some answer will be found."

The decision rests in the hands of the state legislature who must decide whether or not to use the Veteran's Trust Fund to meet the crisis.

TARGET: CAMPUS MESS. Student Council's Campus Improvement Committee, headed by Bob Asperger, this week announced tentative plans for a two-day cleanup drive to eliminate the litter that has collected around EMC's campus and to improve the general appearance of the area. Faculty and students, both individuals and organizations, would participate, each group being responsible for a certain area, under the proposal. At its Tuesday night meeting, the Council also voted to request rapid cleanup of the college picnic grounds from the Grounds and Maintenance Dept. so that the area will be in shape for the May 23 seminar planned for there.

Council eyes changes in discipline setup

Deadline today

Applications for the posts of editor and business manager of The Echo and Aurora and for the editor of Concepts are due today at the office of the Vice President of Planning and Development, second floor, Pierce Hall.

A proposal to completely revamp the student court system at Eastern Michigan college will get an open hearing at next Tuesday's meeting of the EMC Student Council.

The Council will consider a proposal that would establish a "dignified and responsible court system for EMC students," according to the Judiciary Committee of the Council, which filed a report to the Council Tuesday night. All interested students have been invited to the meeting to voice their opinions.

The new independent court system would include the following:

Separate judiciary boards in each residence hall to first consider alleged infractions of college policies;

An overall Women's Judiciary Board to handle cases involving women students alone and to hear appeals from the residence hall judiciary boards; and

A campus-wide Student Court to act as a final court of appeal from both the Women's Judiciary Board and the judiciary boards in each of the men's residence halls.

The recommendations were proposed by Tom Butts and Joanne Regan at Tuesday's Council meeting. Both served on the Judiciary Committee.

"This proposal should if approved by the Council, guarantee each student at Eastern Michigan College a fair trial whenever they are accused of infractions of college policy," Butts told the Council. He said the proposed system would create a setup by which cases involving student discipline would automatically be referred to the student court.

"There will be a longer lapse of time while the court considers its decisions," he said.

Butts emphasized that it would take co-operation from both students and the college administration if the new setup were to work. He said members of the court would have to guard against "stupid decisions," and administration officials — although they would have a veto power over court decisions — would have to refrain from "changing in minor ways" court decisions if the new system was expected to prove effective.

Next Tuesday's meeting, at 7:00 p.m. in McKenny Hall, is open to all students.

Dorm dance, show planned for Friday

Part II of "Dorms in Rhythm" will be held on May 1 from 9:00 until midnight in the ballroom of McKenny Hall.

The dormitories participating in the talent show will be Jones, King, Goodison and Downing Halls.

The event, which is being sponsored by the All-College Social Committee under the chairmanship of Nancy Booth, will feature music by Jim Servis.

Last week's winner of Part I chosen last Friday night was Judith Hudak, vocalist, who sang "Birth of the Blues."

Again, there will be no admission charged, and the dress will be casual.

Dorm payments discussed

To the Editor:

One of the most acute problems facing many students of EMC these days is their personal financial problems. Many rumors have circulated the campus with regard to another increase. This suspected increase is that of higher residence hall payments.

As of last week, Mr. Lewis Profit says he does not yet know the answer to this problem. It should be noted that the final decision regarding board and room rates is one of the Michigan State Board of Education.

Some students probably wonder why there is a need for an increase. Since the last increase from $295.00 to $333.00 per semester, labor costs have continued to rise. There is even a possibility that student wages may increase next semester. Repair costs to older buildings are always quite high. The cost of food has increased 11% in this period.

When a new building is built, it frequently is financed with existing buildings. This will usually afford a lower interest rate on the loan due to the equity from the existing buildings. These interest rates have increased over the years also.

With all these increases, it seems likely to this observer that the residence hall rates will increase, even if only slightly. (Some sources believe it will not increase more than $1.00 per week, if at all).

Some students have asked why rates should be the same for those in older halls as for those in newer. In asking this question, the writer was shown how older halls, with fewer people, have approximately the same operating expense as newer ones and have far greater maintenance costs.

It follows, therefore, that even though on the same debt, new halls contribute more because of less expense, and the students in older halls are not subsidizing the students in newer halls.

Mr. Profit asked the writer certain questions relative to values:

1. Is it more valuable to have 2 students or 4 students in a study room?
 2. Is it more valuable to live close to the center of campus or farther toward the extremities?
 3. Is it more valuable to be in a smaller or larger hall in terms of numbers?
 4. Is it more valuable to have private baths or community facilities?
 5. Is it more valuable to have private telephones or inter-com's?
- The answers to these and other questions are most difficult since

Passing Through: An illustration

by C. W. Cheng

(Often when a writer is expressing his views on a particular subject or subjects, he discovers material that very clearly represents his feelings on the topic he is writing.)

So is the case with this piece written by a graduating senior of one of the Big Ten schools which was reprinted in the Wayne Collegian and which is printed below. It plainly and candidly illustrates a few attitudes this person has regarding some of our college comrades:)

"I'm Tired"

I'm tired of puppets instead of people,
Of crew cuts and tweed coats, of pipes and Picasso buttons;
Of people who drop soliloquies carefully labeled intelligence.
I'm tired of people who play the dating game like touts at a race track.

Tired of seeing people used because its only a game,
Of people who turn "making out" into a social grace and a woman into a piece of beef,
Of watching sincerity fester into smoothness.
I'm tired of cynics who call themselves realists,
Of minds rotting in indifference,
Of people bored because they're afraid to care,
Of intellectual games of ring-around-the-rosy.
I'm tired of people who have to be entertained,
Of girls proud of knowing the score and snickering about it,
Of girls intent on learning the score.

I'm tired of sophisticated slobs,
Of people who tinker with sex until it's smut.
Of people whose understanding goes as deep as "neat."
I'm tired of people who scream they hate it, but won't leave it because they're lazy,

Of people with nothing better to do than glue their days together with alcohol.
I'm tired of people embarrassed at honesty, at love, at knowledge.
I'm tired, yes . . . very tired.

everyone is not in agreement. Therefore, different halls have different types of facilities. The rates, however, are the same and represent equal values for the residents.

Much has been done so far this year and much is still on the schedule to be repaired later this year. Munson Hall has received new desk tops in all rooms. It is planned that Munson Hall, along with Jones Hall, will be painted this summer.

King and Goodison Halls have received repairs of the roof over their kitchens and also over a larger portion of the buildings. Other buildings receive repairs as they are needed.

States athletic policy

To the Sports Editor:

Over the past few months athletic policies, Grants-in-Aid, and a variety of sub-issues concerning Intercollegiate Athletics at Eastern have been enveloped in much written and verbal controversy, charges and counter-charges, and expressions of personal opinions. It would be understandable if a listener or reader would arrive at the conclusion that Eastern does not have a clear-cut, written set of policies governing Intercollegiate Athletics and Grants-in-Aid.

In the April 23 issue of the Eastern Echo, a letter from an individual who identified himself as "An Alumnus" raises several questions concerning these policies on athletics and Grants-in-Aid. The questions raised are reasonable questions. They demand accurate and reasonable answers.

On July 31, 1957, President Elliott approved a policy statement on Intercollegiate Athletics. This policy statement was released from my office on that date. The statement on athletic philosophy at Eastern is as follows.

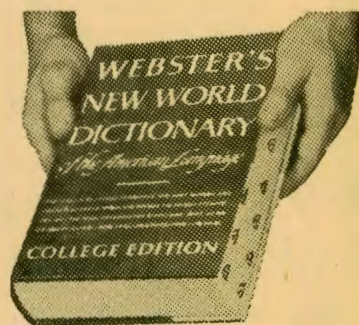

"The Intercollegiate Athletic

Program at Eastern Michigan College shall be considered a student activity designed to participate maximum student participation, both as athletes and spectators. The strength of the athletic program shall lie in its ability to provide a wholesome, educational, and recreational program for the maximum number of students, and not in the promotion of individuals or individual teams

Preparations almost done for presentation of 'Oklahoma!'

Preparations for the EMC Players' forthcoming production of Oklahoma have entered their final phase. The hit Rodgers and Hammerstein musical comedy which is being produced by the Players in collaboration with the Departments of Music and Women's Physical Education, will be presented in the Quirk Theatre May 13 through 16.

Of the performing arts, musical drama is doubtless the most complex. Bringing together as it does the arts of music, dance, and theatre, one of the main problems is to bring unity and cohesion to the entire production.

Until the last phases of preparation, the various elements develop in isolation. Thus, there are separate rehearsals for the actors, for the singers, for the dancers, and for the orchestra. The backstage crews, meanwhile, are busy plotting the make-up, and readying the costumes. A series of "assembly" rehearsals immediately prior to the final dress rehearsals serves to integrate these diverse elements into a unified whole.

In Oklahoma! Rodgers and Hammerstein have provided delightful tunes and an engaging story; more than one hundred EMC students, under the guidance of a half dozen faculty members, will provide all of those elements that are needed to transform a score and a "book" into an evening of entertainment.

Student's art shown in national exhibit

Marjorie Hakala, a junior student from Hazel Park majoring in art education, has two paintings in an exhibition sponsored by the Lutheran Brotherhood National Fine Art Committee.

Her oil paintings, entitled "Arrangement in Red and Orange" and "Carol Lynn," were among 119 selected for exhibition out of 400 entries submitted by Lutheran college students from all over the nation. They are now on exhibit at the Lutheran Center in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Marjorie is the art editor for the Aurora and is in charge of the Saturday morning "Art For Fun" classes.

Marine recruiter visits campus today

An officer selection officer for the State of Michigan will visit campus today (Thursday) for the purpose of interviewing, testing and providing information for those students interested in becoming Marine Corps officers.

Captain Reginald G. Sauls IV, USMC, will be at McKenny Hall. Qualification tests will be given on campus.

Reception tonight concludes lectures

A reception tonight at Starkweather Hall will conclude a series of four lectures by the Rev. Celestine Fernando, an ordained Anglican priest who serves as the University Chaplain of the Church of Ceylon.

"New Perspectives for World Community" will be the topic of Rev. Fernando's final talk tonight in the McMath Lecture Series which he began Monday. It will be given at 8:00 p.m. in Strong Auditorium.

The lecture series, addressed primarily to those who are not Christians, or Christians unaffiliated with a church, are "based on the conviction that too many churches and Christian institutions hide the gospel and prevent its powers from flowing through them because of their worship of secular gods, the inadequate relation of preaching to living and the failure of Christian persons and institutions to show forth the true mission of the church which is the changing of human lives and the redemption of man and society."

The public is invited to both tonight's lecture and reception. There is no admission charge.

Vets should sign by tomorrow

Veterans attending Eastern Michigan College should sign their April monthly certifications of training on Thursday, April 30, and Friday, May 1, it was announced this week.

Kappa Delta Pi honors initiates at banquet

Dr. Alvin D. Loving, Associate Professor of Education at the Flint Center of the University of Michigan, will deliver the annual Kappa Delta Pi Honors Address on Thursday, May 5.

The address will be given at the initiation banquet in McKenny Hall, the executive council for the education honorary announced. Ruth Boyce, President, will preside at the initiation of 66 new members.

Prof. Loving, who has been at the University's Flint branch for the past two years, has a distinguished career in education. His experience has included teaching and administration, and he achieved wide recognition in educational circles as an elementary principal in River Rouge. He has also studied in India as a Fulbright Scholar.

Much in demand as a teacher and speaker, Dr. Loving has addressed many groups in Michigan and was a featured speaker at EMC during the 1957 summer session.

SC planning spring seminar

Two topics of current interest to college students will be discussed informally by faculty members and EMC students when they get together for the annual spring seminar sponsored by Student Council.

This year's event has been set for Saturday, May 23, and will be held at the college picnic grounds, according to Joanne Regan, chairman of the Council's seminar committee.

One of the items to be discussed is "What is Maturity?" The other has not yet been revealed. Several faculty members are expected to help discuss these issues.

Noon refreshments will be served at the session. Complete details and a tentative schedule will be published in next week's issue of The Echo.

Open house draws large group today

More than 700 high school students from throughout southeastern Michigan are visiting EMC today for an all-campus open house.

Various groups of EMC students, including the hospitality committee, the student MEA, and Pi Omega Pi, are participating in the program for the visitors.

This morning, Dean of Men James M. Brown gave a welcoming speech, and Joe Rippetoe, Student Council President, served as platform chairman for a general meeting of the group. Tours of the campus followed the meeting.

Hayes Jones: "A good sport"

The Spectator

by Bill Forster

The outcome of Hayes Jones' double victory and award as outstanding athlete at the 50th annual Drake Relays on Saturday is relatively well known by this paper's printing. However, Hayes' true greatness as a person (something not earned by reputation on the track) was exhibited in a very small gesture just previous to making the trip to Drake. As was reported in last week's Echo, the Drake Relay Association had sent $250 to cover the expenses of an EMC contingent. Nevertheless, this was not enough to cover the expenses of Jones, plus his four teammates, and Assistant Coach Jim Fox. Thus Hayes stated he didn't want to make the trek if his mates couldn't go.

As a result of Hayes' statement, Head Coach George Marshall decided to attempt to collect the balance necessary by soliciting from the faculty. In this case, Earl Studt of Field Services (always an EMC booster) circulated amongst the administrators of the college and collected $20. Marshall himself got together another $20. Finally, one other anonymous individual (as all these benevolents desired to be) kicked in $5 more.

A last act of generosity was put forth by the coach's wife, Mrs. Lucille Marshall. When it was discovered that the boys would have to scrimp along on $9 for nine meals, Mrs. Marshall bought four chickens to make sandwiches with, she bought Hershey bars, and she provided a basket-full of other goodies for the trip.

Thus the trip was a success before it started. Hayes' winning the 100-yard dash and 120-yard high hurdles in 9.5 and 13.7 respectively, though unprecedented was almost anticlimactic. The medley relay team of Ray Campbell, Doug Carroll, Gurney Beach, and Mauri Jormakka added further plaudits to Eastern by taking fifth in their event.

What does this prove? Well, it proves that there still is room in the field of sport for the "good sport."

Netters whip 'Dales, Britons in weekend sweep

The EMC netters pushed their record above the .500 mark via two wins in the last week. The Hurons stomped Hillsdale 7-0 on Thursday and squeaked by the Albion Britons 5-4 this Monday.

According to Coach Bush, three of his men were instrumental in Thursday, the EMC victories the double triumph. They were Bob Martian, Dick Davey, and Bob Opitck. Of Opitck's play Bush said, "He's what is known in tennis circles as a hustler on the courts. He returns everything the opposition can throw at him. He really demoralizes a good tennis player."

This Monday, the Hurons had

Hurons scalped for sixth time

by Ken Balcoff

Eastern Michigan opened league play on the Southern Illinois diamond Friday and dropped their first IIAC game to last year's champions 13-4. Saturday the story was the same as they dropped a twin bill to the same team for their sixth straight loss of the season.

In the two games Saturday, the Hurons were downed 7-1 and 9-4. The EMC squad was held scoreless until the fourth inning of the first game by Saluki pitcher, Harry Gurley. After the Hurons scored once, Gurley shut the door. This was the second win of the season against one loss for Gurley. Eastern pitcher, Ron Gulyas, lost his second of the season in a thirteen hit effort.

The green and white team picked four runs, but were bested as Southern picked up nine runs on six hits and five Huron errors. Ted Nix fired a six hitter to no avail as his defense crumbled about him.

Coach William Crouch has been getting poor fielding, hitting that has been below par and pitching that has not been very good. Lack of practice may be the reason Crouch says, "I'm sure we're not that bad."

at the expense of the total student body. All scheduling and programing shall be arranged to implement this philosophy." The intercollegiate Athletics are governed by the Intercollegiate Athletic Board in Control. This Board is a representative board. Its line of responsibility and its composition is quoted from this same policy statement as follows.

"The Intercollegiate Athletic Board in Control shall be responsible to the President. The President hereby designates the Vice President for Student Affairs as the liaison individual between the Board and the President.

The Board shall be responsible for the athletic policies and the modification of policy and shall regulate Intercollegiate Athletics on this campus. The President shall designate two (2) ex-officio members to this Board. These two (2) members shall be the Head of the Physical Education, Health, and Recreation Department and a faculty representative. Both of these ex-officio members shall have full voting rights on the Board. The remaining members of the Board shall be elected under the constitutional provisions of Faculty Council.

It shall be the responsibility of the Chairman of the Board to provide recommendations on athletic control to the President through the Vice President for Student Affairs."

There are seven faculty members elected by Faculty Council to the Board. There are two student members named by the Student Council. Mr. Lloyd Olds is an ex-officio member as the Head of the Physical Education Department, and Dean Ralph Gil- den is an ex-officio member as the faculty representative. I am not a member of the Athletic Board in Control and would be present at a meeting only upon special invitation by the Chairman.

The total policy statement to which I referred is available to you upon request. It is a lengthy document and covers all of the major areas of Intercollegiate Athletics on this campus. It is Eastern's policy and the framework for Eastern's practices.

The policy on Grants-in-Aid at Eastern is also in written form and is clear and concise.

In the minutes of Faculty Council, dated July 11, 1959, the following statement appears.

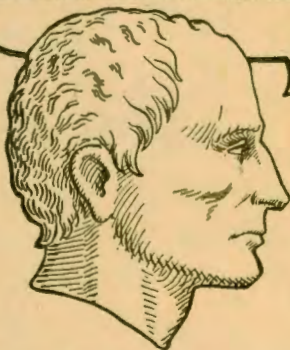

"On Tuesday, May 29, 1956, the Scholarship Policy Committee met at the invitation of President Elliott to formulate a policy for Grants-in-Aid. The problem has been under consideration for some time and has been raised recently because there is a desire on the part of some faculty members to establish a Grant-in-Aid Fund."

In the letter to the Echo by "An Alumnus," there appeared the following paragraph.

"There seems to be a controversy between the Athletic Department and the administration over athletic aid. This should be brought into the open and resolved. Many faculty members and alumni remember the dictatorial attitude of the administration in the thirties and early forties. This affected the faculty, appropriations, enrollment, and the reputation of the college. Let us hope that it does not happen again after an apparently excellent recovery. Can the policy of the administration toward athletic aid be stated definitely, without rationalizing, by answering the following questions either yes or no?"

The point which I am attempting to make is that the attitude or policy on Grants-in-Aid is not a dictatorial policy of the administration. It is a policy established through the democratic procedure of review and recommendation of Faculty Council, review and recommendation of Policy Council, and final acceptance by the President of the (Continued on page 5)

Golfers lose two, then even record

In three matches during the past week the Huron golf team lost two matches to Southern Illinois on Friday and Saturday but came back to avenge a previous defeat at the hands of the University of Detroit on Monday. The Hurons record is now 3 wins and 3 losses.

In the match with Southern on Friday, the local swatters were beaten 11-9. All the Hurons shot in the low seventies with Lloyd Otto low with a 73. Otto, Folmer Jensen, and Norv Schock were three point winners for the Hurons.

Saturday, Cliff Zill was EMC's medalist with a 73 but was beaten by Dick Falk's low score of 69. This was merely an indication of the "hot" Saluki duffers as the Hurons were whipped 15-5.

On Monday, the Huron golfer squad avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the University of Detroit by whipping the Titans at Washtenaw 11½ - 6½.

According to Coach Jim Skala, "scores were good considering the wind and the rain." Skala added further that "Otto's 35 on the front nine was remarkable." The Huron mentor also stated that he felt the outcome of the match only indicated that his charges shouldn't have been defeated by the Titans in the first match.

States athletic policy

College.

On July 11, 1956 the Faculty Council recommended the following policies on Grants-in-Aid at Eastern. On July 12, 1956 the President's Policy Council recommended approval of the Faculty Council action, and on that same date the recommendation by Faculty Council was accepted by President Elliott.

The answers to the "Alumnus" request, I think, will be self-evident from the policy statement itself.

Individual medal scores were: Lloyd Otto 76, Cliff Zill 79, Folmer Jensen 81, Ed Meredith 81, Norv Schock 87, and Al Siebert 89.

ment itself.

The following is Eastern's policy on Grants-in-Aid.

1. Grants-in-Aid are accepted in principle for Eastern Michigan College.
2. The President of Eastern Michigan College shall appoint a Grant-in-Aid Committee of not less than five individuals from the faculty and not more than one individual representing a particular area or department.
3. Grants-in-Aid will be available on an equal basis to all students enrolled in or approved for admission to Eastern Michigan College.
4. The applicant for a Grant-in-Aid must have a minimum cumulative academic index of 2.3 or, in the case of new freshmen, must be in the upper one-half of the high school graduating class.

5. After scholastic potential has been established, the decision on the application for a Grant-in-Aid will be based on financial need; promise of superior performance in extra-curricular activities may be one of the factors considered.
6. The maximum Grant-in-Aid to any one individual will be $75.00 per semester.
7. A Grant-in-Aid is made on a semester basis only.
8. Application for a Grant-in-Aid must be approved and recommended by the applicant's department or major specialization (or the department of the first minor if the applicant has no major) or, in the case of entering freshmen or transfer students only, by any relevant department before it is referred to the Grants-in-Aid Committee for action.
9. The Grant-in-Aid Committee shall review the individual's written application and render a decision before any commitment is made to the applicant.
10. All monies used for Grants-in-Aid must be handled through the college and under the regulations and policies governing Grants-in-Aid, and donations to this fund cannot be designated for specific programs or individuals.
11. The Student Aid Corporation shall accept monies into the Grant-in-Aid Fund upon authorization of the President of Eastern Michigan College, be the custodian of the Grants-in-Aid from this fund only upon authorization by the Grants-in-Aid Committee.

These are Eastern's policies. They are written and they are clear. They may differ from the personal opinions of any one of us. The machinery to make recommendations for changes in athletic policies is to the Board in Control, through the Faculty Council, to the Presidents Policy Council, and final review by the President.

I would also like to extend to you and any other member of the Echo staff an invitation to discuss any aspect of Intercollegiate Athletics at Eastern Michigan College.

Sincerely yours,
William C. Lawrence

WUS thanks students, faculty

The "continued concern" of Eastern Michigan students and faculty members for the work of World University Service was acknowledged this week in an open letter to the campus.

Frank G. Sulewski, regional executive of the worldwide student aid organization, thanked EMC for contributions of $186 raised on "Tag Day" here last month.

"It is deeply gratifying to have your check," he wrote, "which you forwarded representing a contribution to the work of World University Service from the students and faculty at Eastern Michigan College."

Sulewski said funds raised from Eastern and other colleges and universities this year would help to train African doctors, aid Algerian and Hungarian refugee students, assist tubercular students in Asia and provide "countless numbers of students with food, clothing, books and other educational equipment."
